Welcome to Week 8 Term 2 2018

Amazing Staff -It may seem like I have said this a few times, but you are incredibly lucky to have such quality teachers and support staff working with your child/children at Wollondilly Public School. The amount of time and effort they put into planning, assessing, teaching and all the other jobs in a school is extraordinary. Just like children in a class, each teacher is different and special and bring their own magic to the classroom every day and each support staff brings enthusiasm and energy to their different positions. I am incredibly privileged to work with them and I hope you feel the same way.

Reports - Teachers have been working hard collating data and information based on assessment tasks, class work and teacher observations throughout the year. This information will be sent home in a report on your child's progress, Week 10, Friday 6th July . Following the reports being sent home, you are welcome to make an appointment next term to discuss any aspect of the report with your child's teacher. Your child's report:

- is written in plain language
- provides information about your child's learning in each area
- includes teacher comments that clearly identify areas of strength and areas for further development
- provides a snapshot of your child's achievements graded from outstanding to limited
- provides information about your child's social development and commitment to learning

Internet safety – The children and I have had a conversation during the term about the highly addictive game 'Fortnite'. Safety for children and young people on the Internet is quite possibly the biggest issue facing Australia's youth.

Parents are more concerned than ever about how they can actively protect their child in the online environment. Technology is opening new opportunities for everyone, promoting creativity and effective learning. It is no secret that children and young people are using the Internet more than ever and from an increasingly earlier age. With approximately 60 percent of Australian children and young people using mobile devices to get online, the Internet is more accessible than ever before. This ease of access creates valid concerns for many parents.

To use technology effectively requires an awareness of both the benefits and the risks. This in turn, has created a world, which can be both fun and exciting as well as providing potential dangers and harm. It is important that parents/carers and young people are aware of these risks and of the steps they can take to minimise them. Increasingly primary school aged children need access to the Internet for school work.

Children of this age feel more confident using other services provided by the internet such as chat rooms, with some deciding to search for prohibited material. Your children will also notice marketing material. It is extremely important for your children to know not to give out personal information or details. Spend some time researching the Internet and how to keep your child safe.

By making their time on the internet a family activity, you will be able to maintain very close supervision, while teaching them safe online behaviour.

Have a great fortnight.
